

The Washington Post

D.C. briefs

Cherry Blossom Freedom Walk planned for Saturday

Thursday, April 1, 2010

The annual Cherry Blossom Freedom Walk is Saturday at the National Japanese American Memorial to Patriotism During World War II, which is bounded by Louisiana and New Jersey avenues and D Street NW.

The walk, sponsored by the National Japanese American Memorial Foundation, commemorates the experience of Japanese Americans during the war and highlights the constitutional issues raised by their confinement in internment camps.

Check-in begins at 9 a.m.; the opening ceremony starts at 9:30 a.m. For information, go to <http://www.ncbfreedomwalk.org> or call 202-530-0015.